Field Visit to the ancient Shiva temple at Ambarnath

04th March 2020

Department of History of K B College, Thane had organised a field visit program on 4th March 2020 at 10.30 am to the ancient Shiva temple at Ambarnath. The Shiv Mandir of Ambarnath is a historic 11th century Hindu temple, still in use, at Ambarnath near Mumbai, in Maharashtra, India. It is also known as the Ambreshwar Shiva Temple, and known locally as Puratana Shivalaya. It is situated on the bank of Vadavan (Waldhuni) river, 2 km away from Ambarnath railway station (East). The temple was built in 1060 AD beautifully carved in stone. It was probably built by Shilahara king Chhittaraja, it may also have been rebuilt by his son Mummuni.

Unusually, the sanctuary or garbhagriha is below ground, reached by some 20 steps down from the mandapa, and is open to the sky as the shikhara tower above stops abruptly at a little above the height of the mandapa, and was apparently never completed. It is in bhumiya form. The mandapa has three porches. Much of the exterior figure carving is damaged, but some female and divine figures remain.

15 students of the department along with a faculty Dr. Deepak B Bansod visited and took the blessings of Lord Shiva. They appreciated the beauty and architectural design of the ancient temple.

The prime objective of the program was to inculcate the Ancient architecture along with socio-religious and patriotic feeling, research aptitude amongst students and motivate them to explore the new techniques and methods of presentation. Also to stir up love and respect for monuments and rich history of our nation in minds of students.

The event was indeed an enriching experience for the students and faculty. They took back fond memories of the occasion.
